How to write a back cover?

1/ With your partner, discuss to find what are the important elements that must be found on a back cover (une quatrième de couverture)

2/ Now, look at this back cover of the novel Oliver Twist, by Charles Dickens. What are the key elements of this back cover? (you don't need to understand all the words)

Look for the following key elements on this back cover (you don't need to understand all the words):

- name of the main character:

- Time and place of the story:

- Pictures on the back cover: YES/ NO?

> Aim of using pictures:

- Paragraphs: 1 or more? How many?:

- Note the subject of each paragraph:

- Tense (temps des verbes):

3/ When you're finished start thinking about the elements you want to put on your back cover of Dickens' story:

If you love a good story, then look no further.
OXFORD CHILDREN'S CLASSICS
bring together the most unforgettable stories ever told. They're books to treasure and return to again and again.

When Oliver Twist asks for more food it changes his life for ever. He flees his life in the workhouse but enters a much more dangerous place—the dark streets of London. Oliver is soon in the clutches of Fagin and his gang of pickpockets, before eventually finding a true friend. But his happiness is short-lived as Fagin and the violent Bill Sikes are determined to drag Oliver back into a life of crime . . .
